Tinted windshields draw citations

More citations are being given to motorists driving vehicles with tinted windows. 307 of the offenders have been cited in March, according to CHP Captain Don Watkins, commander of the eastern half of San Diego county.

"Tinting," he said, "is prohibited on automobile windshields and front windows."

Back-window tinting is permitted, but only if the vehicle has side mirrors.

In the first 24 days of March, CHP officers cited 1,028 speeders, 645 without belts buckled, 30 without toddler seats, and 1,414 without evidence of insurance.

Additionally, 261 drivers were arrested for driving under the influence.

In Lemon Grove, 360 speeders have been cited this month, according to the Deputy of the San Diego Sheriff's Department, Sergeant Rusty Burkett. Additionally, 22 DUT's were apprehended, 68 drivers were not buckled-up, and 174 carried no evidence of insurance.

Cuyamaca's Weekend College proves popular with students

Cuyamaca College's innovative Weekend College celebrated its first anniversary in January.

The rapidly expanding program, which began in the summer of 1988 with 125 students, has grown to enroll over 600 students during the 1988-89 academic year.

Committed to meeting the needs of non-traditional students, the Weekend College offers students who work full-time the opportunity to enroll in a class a month and attend those classes on Friday nights and all day Saturdays.

The program has been designed so that students can complete all their course work for an Associate Degree in two years.

The Weekend College has attracted a diversified group of students: working adults seeking additional training in their current careers or retraining in another; students from the traditional college program seeking to pick up a class during the summer or month-long intersessions, including San Diego State, where certain programs are impacted.

As part of its continuing response to the needs of its students, the Weekend College is expanding its course offerings.

Students may now enroll in the new Real Estate program which allows them to take real estate license preparation and training on the weekends.

Also students interested in pursuing a career in teaching can now enroll in courses in the college's new Liberal Studies program.

Commentary

by Max Goodwin

There was a small rebellion in Lemon Grove recently which was covered by a front-page piece in the Review and the Bulletin.

The picture-story showed that concerned citizens were removing signs from utility poles because home-seekers were apparently being misled.

The signs offered a house for sale, or rent, and the locale of the signs suggested that the property was nearby.

They were not.

What anxious respondents didn't know was (because hidden away in very small type) that $2 would be charged to the respondent's telephone bill and that the call would go to an answering machine which spewed out pre-recorded information about several houses for sale or rent. Nothing more. No human response, according to our informant.

At the end of the week came a communication from Pacific Bell, having nothing to do specifically with sign removals. Yet, in another way, it addressed the problem the signs had created.

The communication stated that the Public Utilities Commission had approved a new service that would greatly expand the kinds of consumer information available over the telephone.

The new service will let businesses use a 10-digit number starting with the 900 prefix to offer callers a variety of information and entertainment programs, according to Pacific Bell spokesman, Jim Herold.

"This new system will give our customers a quick, convenient, economic access to unlimited information services," he said. "What pleases us is that the new service has built-in safeguards to prevent consumers from receiving unexpected, high phone bills as a result of charges for calls to 900 numbers."

"For example," Herold continued, "callers will be told about the price of the call before hearing the message. They can then hang up without charge," he explained.

He also said PacTel would make a one-time refund for charges for unauthorized calls to the 900 numbers.

Companies producing the 900 information programs will set the price of their services, up to a maximum of $20 per call. PacTel will bill callers on behalf of the information providers and keep a portion of what it collects for each call.

Customers who want their phones blocked from being used for 900 calls can get it done from PacTel free of charge. Calls to 976 porno numbers will be automatically blocked for customers who have requested 976 blocking.

The company will not bill for providers of dial-a-porn messages considered to be "harmful" under the California Penal Code.

Customers will be able to block certain undesirable prefixes from their telephones, while maintaining the ability to call other information services grouped under a third prefix, according to Herold.

"Our goal is to disconnect dial-a-porn," he said. "But until we have legal authority to do that, we've designed our 900 service to solve the problems some consumers have with 976."

PacTel filed a lawsuit in March, 1988, asking federal court to confirm PacTel's right as a private business to refuse service to dial-a-porn companies, because of the damage of PacTel's reputation.

The court has not yet ruled on that lawsuit.

But relief from the unforeseen charges on your phone bill is in sight. PacTel is expected to put the new 900 information calling service in operation early in July.

Sports Commentary

by John E. Wirges

Basketball is as All-American as Jack Armstrong, I know, but it is just not my sport. I see no adventure in it. To my view, it has no charm; I find it boring.

I see nothing particularly notable in five tall people wearing sneakers and colored underwear running up and down a hardwood slab trying to stuff a ball that is too large to hold down a hoop suspended over their tallness on a glass blackboard.

That's just the game. The business of basketball is even bigger than common sense, sportsmanship or ethics should allow.

Basketball has been likened to soccer as a game enjoyed and played by the rich and poor alike. That may be true enough, but for those who master either sport, there are plenty of bucks, perks and special considerations available.

Sometimes these rewards are offered too soon. It's not at all unusual for a prep player to receive grade consideration, or for a collegiate star to drive a new car.

I remember one youngster being rushed by a host of citadels of higher learning. His father asked one coach what the school could offer his son.

"He'll get a full NCAA ride," said the coach. "Books, tuition and lab fees."

The father tried to hide his laughter. "You're not even in the same ball park as the others," he told the coach.

College basketball is under the gun for decades of malpractice. Things came to a head recently when the University of Georgia fired professor Jan Kemp. She taught remedial English to scholarship athletes in school under conditional programs.

When some of her students couldn't even pass the remedial work, she graded them accordingly. Georgia officials upped the grades of 9 football players to keep them eligible. Kemp protested, was demoted, and eventually fired.

She sued, won $1.8 million and reinstatement. The NCAA, largely prompted by Kemp's court victory, instituted a proposal that denies athletic scholarships to students who do not meet minimum academic requirements.

It is known as Prop. 42, and denies a scholarship to freshmen who do not attain a 2.0 overall grade point average in high school, a 2.0 GPA in 11 core classes, and minimum grades on the SAT or ACT college entrance exams.

Believe it or not, there are those in the coaching fraternity who are fighting it. They want the jocks out there on the playing fields, where God intended they be, instead of in a classroom or study hall, where non-athlete students belong.

After all, college basketball is big business. Somewhere along the line, people forget that colleges and universities are places for study and learning. There is nothing wrong with the idea that student-athletes be required to qualify first as students, then as athletes.

Prop. 42 is making an attempt to do just that. Perhaps things would change if the NCAA kept college basketball in the campus gym and off national TV. The pressure to win would change, and non-basketball fans like me could concentrate on more important stuff, like baseball.

From Where I Sit

by Frank Andrews

The recent record winds of San Diego remind me of one of the times they closed the mountainous stretch of highway 8 between here and El Centro.

My brother-in-law, Tom, from El Centro, was in San Diego at Mercy Hospital having an operation for neck pain. My wife, who is his sister, and I visited him several times during his stay at the hospital. At check-out time he found out that he had to lay flat on his back for the long trip home.

"Frank, do you know what an ambulance would charge for my trip home? They told me and I nearly had a heart attack," Tom said.

"Tom, your sister and I will be glad to deliver you right to your doorstep in my van," I replied.

We picked him up at Mercy Hospital about 2 p.m. on a Friday. A twin-sized mattress was placed on the floor of the van to make a very comfortable bed for the long drive over the mountains.

We arrived without incident before supper time and decided not only to stay for supper but to wait and go home Sunday afternoon.

"Tom, if you have to feed us for that long, it would have been cheaper to take the ambulance."

After our delicious Sunday dinner prepared by our beloved sister-in-law, Neva, we started home.

The weather reports warned us of high winds in the mountains west of there. We didn't realize how serious it was until the Highway Patrol stopped us at the foot of the hills and turned us back.

Trucks, trailers, camper, and vans were not permitted through unless they were loaded. We had to get through because of my business commitments on Monday. My wife, Willie, exclaimed, "What in the world are we going to do now?"

"I've got a great idea," I yelled. So we turned around and headed back to El Centro and the local brick yard where I purchased a half-ton of old brick.

The man at the yard asked, "What color do you want?"

"Any color, just so they're heavy and cheap," I replied.

With that extra weight evenly distributed on the floor of the van, the Patrol let us pass. The winds through "Devil's Canyon" were so strong that even with the bricks on board, we had to keep all the windows open to keep from tipping over. It was kind of hairy, but we made it.

After arriving safely at our home in Lemon Grove, we had to face another problem--What to do with a load of old bricks??

Our young son, David, was designated as "keeper of the bricks." So he got to unload them and pile them neatly, not only once but several times, as we had a habit of moving frequently. The smart little kid would break a few each time so on our last move, we were out of bricks.

"A short prayer and a load of bricks will get you through almost anything."

Directors of the association's board are Edie Ring and Helen Harris.

Most of the group's members have art work exhibited throughout the community in various locations which include Imperial Savings and Loan, the Lemon Grove Library, The Lemon Grove Congregational United Church of Christ, Bernadine's Hairworld and Heidi's Restaurant.

The association also conducts an art show, with works available to purchase, generally twice a year.

Interested persons are encouraged to attend.

In a preview of future offerings, the Community Ballet Theater conducted a Master Class for intermediate and advanced dancers last week in the new Lemon Grove Arts Complex.

The class was instructed by guest artist Laura Hood of the American Ballet Theatre. Hood has studied with the San Diego Ballet and the renowned Melissa Hayden. She danced with the Eglevsky Ballet Company, the Cleveland Ballet, and the Pennsylvania Ballet before joining the American Ballet Theatre.

The complex, not yet officially opened, is the home of the Community Arts Advisory Council, a non-profit umbrella organization which includes the arts and drama, as well as dance. The complex is located at 8075 Broadway, in Washington Square.

Girl Scouts plan a celebration

Brownie, Junior and Cadette Girl Scouts from Lemon Grove and Spring Valley will join more than 1300 other Girl Scouts at The Grove shopping center on Saturday, April 8, for "the time of their lives!"

The event, located in the center's pedestrian concourse, will provide on-stage entertainment, activities and exhibits for the entire family from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Shoppers and others who attend will have opportunities to view and participate in activities available to Girl Scouts of the 80's. More than 50 booths and displays will highlight a variety of the fun and educational programs open to girls ages five to 17. Stage performances, designed to entertain all ages, are scheduled from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.

"The Time of Your Life," a special event sponsored by Girl Scouts in the East County area, is open to the public. There is no admission charge and parking is free, courtesy of The Grove.

Palm trees go to Vegas

Long-time Lemon Grove resident and businessman, Ken Arnold, said goodbye to four of his eight date palms last week. Arnold said the trees are bound for the new Golden Nugget Hotel and Casino, now under construction in Las Vegas. Each of the trees will be transported by its own flatbed trailer, and each of those towed by its own diesel tractor, all the way from Arnold's home on the corner of Lincoln and Kempf.

Arnold said he's planning a trip to the glittering desert city very soon, and will visit his trees while he's there.

Hosts needed for foreign students

Exceptional high school students from Scandinavia, France, Holland, Germany, Great Britain, Spain and Canada are looking forward to spending the upcoming academic year in America as exchange students. Local families are needed to host students in Southern California.

"Potential host families come from a wide variety of backgrounds and lifestyles. Ideal host families are open-minded, have an interest in people, especially those from another culture, and have a sense of humor!" says Pat Koester, Area Coordinator for San Diego and Imperial Counties of ASSE International Student Exchange Programs (ASSE).

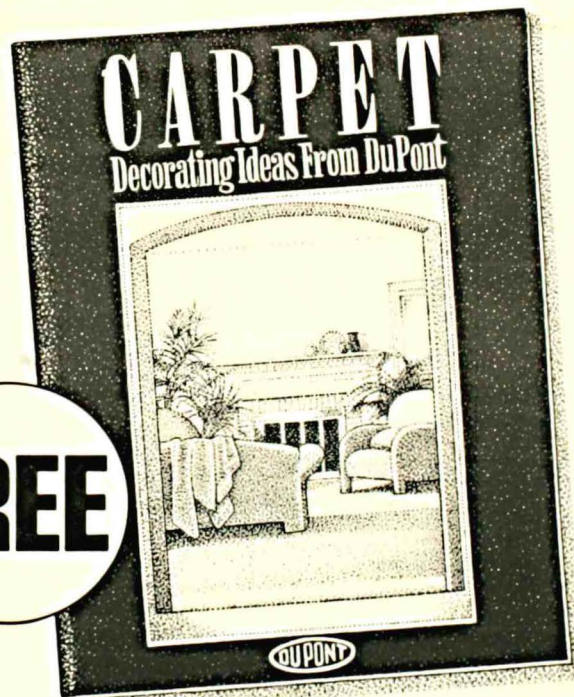

The students are between 15-18 years old, are fluent in English, fully insured and have their own spending money. They expect to share household responsibilities and be included in family activities.

"We help the host family choose a student who has some interests in common with the family, as well as keep in contact with the host family and student on a regular basis to ensure that everything is going smoothly," says local representative, Sue Balint.

If you are interested in becoming an ASSE host family or would like more information, please contact Sue Balint at 488-0059.

Ashley Walker-Hooper wins Helen Teisher Woman of the Year award

Ashley Walker-Hooper, Director of Battered Women's Services at the downtown San Diego YWCA, has been selected to receive the Helen Teisher Woman of the Year award by the Woman's Community Advisory Board of Alvarado Parkway Institute Adult Center (API).

Walker-Hooper, whose program at the YWCA attempts to alleviate domestic violence through intervention with battered women, their children, their partners and community awareness, was chosen by the Board because of her outstanding achievements in women's issues and problems.

In winning the award, Walker-Hooper, a published author and winner of numerous awards for her work on behalf of women, will receive a plaque denoting her achievement and a $500 donation to the Battered Women's Center over which she presides.

In addition to choosing the Woman of the Year, the Board will also donate $500 to Rachel's Womens Center for its work in helping homeless women. The Center provides a safe, supportive and sober environment to over 2,480 women per month.

It is the third year the Helen Teisher Award has been presented to a local woman for her work on women's issues. Previous winners were Lois Kolendar and Carol LeBeau.

The awards will be presented on Thursday, March 30, at 3 p.m. at API, 7050 Alvarado Parkway Drive, La Mesa. Food and beverages will be served. For reservations, call 465-3942.

The Woman's Community Advisory Board has been in existence for 3 years. The Board is made up of 14 women from a variety of professions who are interested in the mental health needs of women and who are willing to devote time and attention to public education about these issues.

When in doubt... ask a professional

Who can describe the possible side-effects of the medicine you're taking? Who knows what books to take to the beach? What's the average cost per square foot of commercial rental space in San Diego? Who won the World Series in 1968? What foods contain Vitamin A?

Who do you turn to when you need answers now, answers you can be sure are factually correct because someone took the trouble to verify them?

"Ask a Professional. Ask Your Librarian." The theme of National Library Week, April 9-15, focuses on the advantage of knowledgeable, professional help in locating necessary information.

City Librarian William W. Sannwald says, "We want businesses and organizations to know they have a reliable source of information, someone they can consult without paying a fee. And families with young children, students, and adults in our community receive the same professional expertise."

"When someone has a question," Sannwald says, "we want the librarian to be the first person they think of."

The San Diego Public Library and its 31 affiliated branches will spotlight the information resources and capabilities of professional librarians with a variety of activities during the celebration of National Library Week.

For additional information, call the Library Development Office at 696-3927.

Anti-drug crusader to speak to students and families on dangers of drugs

What will happen when a nationally-known, anti-drug crusader who speaks their language confronts over 900 county high school students who are "high-risks" and tells them in no uncertain terms what drugs and alcohol can do to the body and mind?

Sean Bentz and Raelene Buckley, El Cajon Valley High School students, have sparked a three-month drive to bring David Toma as the featured speaker on Drug Awareness Celebration Day on April 4 in the East County Performing Arts Center. Bentz and Buckley hope Toma, famous undercover officer, can cut through the fogs of ignorance and denial that they see around them on campus.

"It's gotten to the point," says Bentz, "where some of my friends like drugs more than they like me. They'd rather go out and do drugs than go out with me. I want my friends to know I care about them."

The "celebration" workshop is designed to make high-risk students aware of alternative choices and of people and places where help is available. Twenty-eight junior and senior high schools are involved in the project.

Toma will speak to the students in the morning and then assist at counseling sessions. In the evening he will address parents and community members.

Toma, 53, is a former Newark, New Jersey, detective whose exploits inspired the TV show "Baretta." As a lecturer, he barks, screams, growls, hisses and, as one reviewer put it, "snaps the microphone like a bullwhip." In his talks to over 2,000,000 young people he convinces them readily that he has seen it all. A typical quote: "Don't give me this crap about doing it once in a while; you're dying, baby."

Publishing expert discusses how to sell your book

"How to Create and Sell Your Book in 30 Days," is the subject of Arthur Fleming's talk on Tuesday, April 11, 7 p.m. at the Lemon Grove Library. Questions and answers will follow.

Arthur Fleming has guided hundreds of people into book publication and believes that anyone can create a book that will make money if they are shown the way.

Fleming gives seminars at three local colleges and is seen on his cable TV show, "The Book Doctor." He has been in all phases of the creating, publishing and marketing of books during a 30-year career.

This program, free to the public, is presented by the Friends of the Lemon Grove Library. The presentation will take place in the community room of the library, located at 8073 Broadway.

Hamlisch to perform at finale of San Diego Symphony season

Music from "A Chorus Line" and more comes to town for two performances Friday and Saturday (March 31 & April 1) when Marvin Hamlisch joins the San Diego Symphony for this season's final SuperPops series concert. This "singular sensation"--winner of the Pulitzer Prize, a Tony award, three Academy Awards, four Grammys, and two Golden Globe awards--will entertain Symphony Hall audiences with an evening of Broadway hits, themes from "The Way We Were" and other movies, and his wide selection of other popular works.

A pianist who entered the Juilliard School of Music at age seven and wrote his first pop single as a teenager, Hamlisch collected a string of film-theme victories before his debut Broadway work--the highly-acclaimed "A Chorus Line." His highly-versatile career next expanded onto the concert stage, encompassing a "rent-a-composer" act that's always a hit with audiences.

Conductor Carl Hermanns and the orchestra open the program with selections by Mozart, Bizet, Gilbert & Sullivan and Offenbach. Tickets for both performances range from $15-25.

BUSINESS & REAL ESTATE

Industrial space tightens in East County

The East County industrial market is one of few in San Diego County where supply and demand of industrial space are in balance, resulting in a low vacancy rate, according to an independent quarterly market analysis prepared by Mountain West, a real estate advisory firm serving the Southwest region.

Of the 7.8 million square feet of industrial space existing in the East County market area, which includes the sub-areas of Lemon Grove, Spring Valley, Santee, El Cajon and Lakeside, only 6.7 % is vacant. According to the Mountain West report, the vacancy rate is expected to drop even further to 3.9 % by the fourth quarter 1990.

The sub-area of Santee took the lion's share, 55%, of the year-to-date 1988 industrial space absorption of 217,896 square feet. However, the report revealed that the El Cajon sub-area will garner 49% of the new inventory that is expected to be added to the East County area over the next two years.

By year-end 1988 the East County office market consisted of 1.6 million square feet with a vacancy rate of 8.3%, down slightly from the 9.2% reported in 1987.

Low-income wage earners may be due IRS refund

"If you earned income of less than $18,576 and you have a child living at home, you are entitled to a tax refund even though no money was withheld from your paychecks in 1988," announced Mike Quinn, Director of the IRS Laguna Niguel District office.

"Many working families are unaware that they are entitled to claim the earned income credit which can generate a refund check," continued Quinn. "They only need to file a tax return to receive as much as $874."

To be eligible, you must have worked full or part-time during some part of 1988, and your earnings must be less than $18,576. At least one child must have lived in your home during the year.

The earned income credit is a refundable credit, which means you can benefit even if you owe no federal tax or have no income tax withheld from your pay. If you do owe federal tax, the amount you owe will be subtracted from the amount of your credit, and you can get a refund for the difference.

For those who need assistance with their tax returns, free help is available. The Volunteer Income Tax Assistance (VITA) and Tax Counseling for the Elderly (TCE) programs have trained volunteers who will prepare simple tax returns for low income, elderly, handicapped, and non-English speaking taxpayers.

The volunteer sites are located at libraries, schools, churches, and community centers from now until April 17.

Trust deed investment guide available from state

A comprehensive and definitive booklet that offers sound advice for trust deed investors is available from the California Department of Real Estate, according to Real Estate Commissioner, James A. Edmonds, Jr.

"The brochure is a resource for people enticed by the prospect of potentially high investment returns, but who need to be aware of the risks involved in such transactions," Edmonds explained.

The 26-page booklet provides readers with an overview of basic procedures and factors involved in trust deed investment and offers definitions of words and terminology commonly used in trust deed transactions.

The information in the booklet is written to educate and assist potential investors in making informed decisions concerning trust deed investments, Edmonds said.

Padres commemorative postcard to be issued

San Diego Postmaster Margaret Sellers announced that the San Diego Post Office will, for the fifth consecutive year, pay tribute to major league baseball and the San Diego Padres with a special pictorial postmark and commemorative postcard. The postmark, which reads "San Diego Padres 1989 Home Opener," and the card will be available inside Gate D at the stadium on April 3 when the Padres open their 1989 season against the San Francisco Giants.

Collectors and sports enthusiasts not attending the game may request the special postmark through April 3, by mailing or hand carrying their requests and postal stationery with appropriate postage to:

Philatelic Center, U.S. Post Office
2535 Midway Drive, San Diego, CA 92199-9998

The card, measuring 4 1/2 by 6 inches includes a 20-cent Babe Ruth stamp and the Home Opener postmark. Cost is 50-cents.

Commemorative cards remaining unsold after the game will be available at the Main Post Office's Philatelic Center.

Padre bus schedule announced

There's a sellout crowd headed for the Padres-Giants game at the stadium on Monday, April 3. San Diego Transit is ready to support the home team and its fans with more buses and an earlier loading time.

Buses will begin loading 2 1/2 hours before game time and will run until one hour before the game begins.

Local fans can board Padres Express buses at Marketplace at the Grove (south of Allie's Restaurant); College and University; and College and El Cajon.

In La Mesa, buses may be boarded at Grossmont Shopping Center, Grossmont Center Drive at Center Drive.

One-way fare is $2, a round-trip costs only $4. Exact fare is requested because drivers do not carry change.

Opener will sellout at stadium and on TV

The San Diego Padres opening game is a sellout, but fans can still see the action by ordering cable coverage--providing the order doesn't come too late. The problem is handling the huge volume of calls from people who wait until the last minute to order the game. Opening night orders for the telecast may be made by calling 262-4600 for Cox Cable, 695-3220 for Southwestern Cable and 471-9000 for Dimension Cable.

Cajon Speedway opens April 1st -- no fooling

Cajon Speedway will host the opening race of its 29th auto racing season this Saturday night when the NASCAR Southwest Tour invades the 3/8 mile paved oval located next to Gillespie Field.

A field of nearly 50 stock cars should be in the pits for the 7:30 p.m. start. The Budweiser 100 will cap the night's action with two dozen cars taking the green flag for the marathon grind.

Other racing events will include a semi-final, four heat races, and a trophy dash for the night's four quickest qualifiers. Qualifying runs will start at 6 p.m.

Heading the entry list for the Bud race is defending tour champion, Roman Calczyński, a previous winner here. Calczyński took the first race the tour ran at Cajon in 1986. Other top entries include Troy Beebe, winner of both races here last year, 1987 tour champion Mike Chase, and long time Southern California veteran Dan Press. A number of local favorites are in the large field for the Budweiser 100 including Ron Esau, Scott Lee, Hilton Vail, Bobby Brown, Larry Lord, Eddie Bryans, Mark Meech, Phil Knepp, Michael Hickingbottom, and Dee Cable.

The 1989 Cajon Speedway regular season will begin April 8th.

Spring Valley fighter among winners on El Cortez Thursday night card

Mexico's Jose Quintero (22-5) slowed Rickey Romero's (16-0 with 7 KO's) path to the flyweight championship March 16th in a 10-round match at El Cortez Convention Center. The two met in July, 1987 when Romero was winning fight after fight. Romero took a unanimous decision then. This fight was lack-luster. Neither fighter seemed to let it all go as flyweights usually do, and Quintero won by a split decision.

In a co-feature, Lonnie Smith, (30-2) former World Boxing Welterweight title holder, wrapped up his 10-round bout early when he hit Roberto Urias (11-3) with a crushing right hook. Urias was dropped for an 8-count in each of 3 rounds. The KO came at 2:48 of the 3rd.

In the semi-main middleweight bout, Richard Aguirre (15-3) of Spring Valley, made his first good comeback when he dropped Antonio Guerra at 2:23 of the first in a bout scheduled for 6.

Two other bouts made up the card. Professional boxing is scheduled for every third Thursday of the month at El Cortez.

Case Number: 148883

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may be otherwise interested in the will or estate, or both, of:

FRANCES D. RAY aka FRANCES D. WHIGHAM

A PETITION has been filed by ALICE W. SMOCK in the Superior Court of California, County of San Diego, requesting that ALICE W. SMOCK be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority allows the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain actions, however, the personal representative is required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to this petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held on April 17, 1989 at 1:45 P.M. in Dept. F-5, located at 1505-55 Sixth Avenue, San Diego, CA 92101.

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should either appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the deceased, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within four months from the date of first issuance of letters as provided in section 9100 of the California Probate Code. The time for filing claims will not expire prior to four months from the date of the hearing noticed above.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a formal Request for Special Notice of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in section 1250 of the California Probate Code. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

VFW post celebrating 58 years of service

Prior to the celebration of its founding on April 2, 1931, members of the Lemon Grove Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 2082, on Lemon Grove Avenue, were reflecting on the generations-old battle of the undeserved and unfortunate public image of the VFW, locally and nationally.

"We work hard. We don't just 'party.' I think the misperception is the result of a lack of public awareness," echoed Sandra Cornett, president of the 355-member women's auxiliary. It is true that Post 2082 provides a variety of services to its members, including a private, full-service lounge, as most posts do. However, the post members are swift to point out that the organization's major function is service to its community.

The discussion, focusing on altering the VFW image, included other long-time members: Hibbard Stubbs, who has served as post commander three terms; John Laughead, who is a two-term past commander; Jim King, another former commander; Don Valdez, the current commander; Virgil Trebbien, post trustee, and his wife, Elizabeth, an auxiliary member; as well as other past, present and future officers, who wandered in and out of the open interview.

Together, and often in unison, the members shared the post's numerous activities and concerns.

Post members, 787 of them, participate in a variety of area and local projects and events such as donating to the American Red Cross, the Blood Bank, conducting Buddy Poppy sales to benefit disabled veterans, providing flags to schools or youth groups, and participating in the annual Old Time Days parade.

The organization also supports scout groups, Special Olympics, and other youth activities. It also conducts the monthly food commodity distribution to needy Lemon Grove residents.

Over the years, Post 2082 has provided nearly $20,000 to the VA and Naval Hospitals in San Diego, and a like amount to the Lemon Grove Sheriff's substation for scan-cameras to loan to local merchants for the protection of their premises. Members have contributed $6,800 to the Sheriff's ASTREA program.

A primary function of the VFW is political; veterans' rights legislation and the support of political candidates who will aid those goals. Post members conduct annual Voice of Democracy patriotic essay contests through the local high schools, with competitions at local, state, and national levels for which scholarships of $10,000 or more are awarded.

fund contributor statewide, and rated second in the nation, in the sponsorship of nursing and general college scholarships.

A portion of all dues for membership supports the VFW National Home for veterans' orphans (and occasionally their widows), in Eaton Rapids, Michigan.

The ladies' auxiliary contributes both time and funds to organizations which support battered women, and to area hospices which offer residential care to those suffering terminal cancer. Some of the auxiliary members have opened their homes, temporarily, as respite for distressed children, Sandra Cornett pointed out.

"Many people in Lemon Grove aren't aware that we can contribute money, and that some of the auxiliary women can donate hours to assist with a worthwhile project. We've gotten letters from people in San Diego, but apparently nobody in Lemon Grove is aware of exactly what we do--the services we can offer," Cornett lamented.

The post and its auxiliary raises funds through lotto and lottery sales, bake and craft sales, the rental of the post's large meeting hall, and by hosting huge Sunday breakfasts which are open to the public, from 9 a.m. until noon, for a $3.50 per person donation.

"There's an image we're trying to eradicate," Rogers concluded. "Not only of this post, but the VFW generally. We do a lot of good community service, and we're deeply involved in our community."
